

WHY CHOOSE A CANDO ACCREDITED PROGRAM?

- ✓ Industry-recognized education pathways
- ✓ Supports Technician Aboriginal Economic Developer (TAED) Certification
- ✓ Learn from Indigenous and community development experts
- ✓ Flexible learning options including online, part-time, and full-time studies
- ✓ Build skills in leadership, governance, business, and economic development

Start Your Journey
Today!

YOUR PATHWAY TO INDIGENOUS ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT LEADERSHIP

Cando's Accredited Education Programs provide students with the knowledge, skills, and credentials needed to support sustainable economic growth and prosperity in Indigenous communities across Canada.

Accreditation serves as a seal of approval, verifying that an institute or program meets rigorous academic, ethical, and operational standards set by recognized bodies. It ensures students receive high-quality learning, secures international credit transferability, and boosts employability by meeting industry requirements.

Accredited Institutions & Programs

- Algoma University, ON: Community Economic and Social Development (CESD)
- Cape Breton University, NS: MBA in Community Economic Development
- Kiuna Institution, QC: First Nation Social Science College Diploma – Economic Development Profile
- Nicola Valley Institute of Technology, BC: Aboriginal Community Economic Development (ACED) Diploma
- Red River College Polytechnic, MB: Social Innovation and Community Development
- University College of the North, MB: Community Economic Development Diploma
- University of Lethbridge, AB: Indigenous Governance & Business Management
- University of Winnipeg, MB: Master of Development Practice – Indigenous Development

To find out more about our accredited institutes and programs, follow this link where you will find contact information:

<https://www.edo.ca/certification/accredited-programs>

Empowering Indigenous Communities Through Economic Development Leadership